

Ben Stiles, DC, DACBR

Credentials:

Dr. Stiles graduated with honors from Cleveland University (Cleveland Chiropractic College – Kansas City) in 1998. Upon graduation he began teaching and started a solo clinical practice treating patients with chiropractic and acupuncture. Once he earned his Diplomate of the American Chiropractic Board of Radiology in 2001 he incorporated a film reading practice. He continued to lecture, treat patients, and read x-rays until 2017 when he transitioned into full-time film reading. He has lectured nationally about radiology and x-ray technology/technique/patient positioning to both doctors and chiropractic assistants throughout his career.

Title:

Radiology case review and radiology report writing Part 1

Goals:

To help doctors improve their radiology report writing skills, review interesting radiology subjects in the research, and discuss chiropractic cases that can impact their practices. Dr. Stiles' videos were created with the intention that the attendees are sitting next to him and discussing the chiropractic cases instead of lecturing to them as if on auto pilot. Each case presented to a chiropractic office and was managed by a Doctor of Chiropractic so there is direct clinical application.

Syllabus:

Hour 1: Research article review: How to create a great radiology report
Work through creating two radiology reports

Hour 2: Case review: Hand
Case review: Pelvis

Hour 3: Case review: Spine
Case review: Lower extremity

Hour 4: Case review: Spine
Case review: Spine